

LUX Event

The long and short of it:
living history workshop

EASY READ

VERSION

This workshop is part of Anne-Marie Copestake's exhibition at LUX.

Anne-Marie's exhibition is called 'Birdsong and a bathroom'. It is about people who lived in the Holly Lodge Estate in Highgate.

It will happen on 3 July from 2 to 5pm.

About the workshop:

This workshop will be about storytelling. We will turn our stories into other forms like objects or images.

Artist Alia Syed will lead the workshop.

You will need to bring an object. This object needs to be something special to you. During the workshop you will share your memories about your object. Remember! Do not show your object to the group.

We will learn different ways to remember histories.

We will watch films by Alia Syed at the end.

There are 12 Spaces available.

Ticket costs £5.

Presented with Holly Lodge Community Centre

About the artist:

Alia Syed was born in Swansea, Wales. She lives in London and Glasgow. She has been making experimental films in Britain for 30 years. Syed is interested in how we are shaped by culture, migration and location. She thinks about fiction and fact, present and past.

Alia's films screened at many places. This includes Talwar Gallery in New York and Open city documentary film festival in London.

Exhibition will happen at this address:

LUX, Waterlow Park Centre, Dartmouth Park Hill, N19 5JF

Use the link below to see images of how to get to LUX:

Visual Story: How to get here

Step Free Access: The LUX building is fully wheelchair accessible and there are wheelchair accessible toilet facilities.

Access Information:

Auditory Access: We have hearing loops in the black box.

Sensory Access:

The exhibition space is very dark, and the sound/noise volume is high.

Content/Sensory note will be confirmed before the event.

Find out about general access information by click on the link below: : You can find general access information here

If you have any access needs to attend our events call Sun Park. Sun's phone number is +44(0)20 3141 2960

Or email Sun Park. Sun's email address is events@lux.org.uk